

Artistic representation of Domina shadowing Becca during the simulation VR blizzard scene as she questions who is present. Could be simple vector silhouette style or photo real Motherboard style lines and connectors move towards a vanishing point and create a horizon line/threshold where they break through and become organic leafy vines. Idea is to show something digital unleashed in the material world. Becca on the horizon.

This one is my favorite so far. The face of a young woman highly pixelated as though being digitized. I found an image of a Virgin Mary fresco that would be even more impactful (i think) than just any young womans face.... and that I think its a cool conceptual hook/trick too since you would not instantly recognize the face as a "Mary" but might assume its Becca - who is thought to have brought Domina into being. So there is a parallel to the Mary story. But maybe I'm stretching there... This will be really cool in color.

Artistic representation of Domina shadowing Becca. vector style colorful?

White book cover appears to have the letters cut out revealing a colorful cloudy energy field behind the page. Silhouette of Becca stands at the threshold in the "O" looking into the field/"behind the veil"
